Field guide and usage notes

Table A1: Field guide and usage notes

| Field                                    | Explanation                                                                                                                                                                                                |
|------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Monthly-equivalent Low / High / Midpoint | Monthly salary, hourly wage, daily wage and 13th-month-pay postings are converted into a comparable monthly range.                                                                                         |
| Estimated Annual Cash Wage               | Monthly-equivalent midpoint $\times$ salary months; if 13th-month pay is not explicitly stated, 12 months is used.                                                                                         |
| Estimated Annual Employer Labour Cost    | Estimated by adding an assumed 30% employer burden to cash wages; used in the robot-versus-human labour-cost model.                                                                                        |
| Salary Component Fields                  | Night shift, meal allowance, accommodation, social insurance, housing fund, overtime, piece-rate/performance pay, bonus/allowance/13th-month pay and similar items are separated into independent columns. |
| Reliability Notes                        | Based on public recruitment pages or listing excerpts. Pages are dynamic; secondary verification is recommended before formal economic modelling.                                                          |
| Source                                   | Original content comes from the pasted text table uploaded by the user; source URLs are retained in the workbook.                                                                                          |
